You Write.
We Publish.

Let Us help you tell your story

Publish your book or play today.

Due to ever changing technologies, on-demand publishing has altered the landscape of the conventional publishing market. LX Publishing allows you the opportunity to locally publish your work. You can now self publish and purchase the quantity you desire. Self-published books are distinctively different from traditional books in that you, not the publishing company, control the content, look, and feel.

LX Publishing is intended as a complement to traditional publication processes. You now have the ability to avoid constraints set by conventional book publishers that require stipulated manuscript authorization(s), set quantity orders, print scheduling, warehouse storage -- as well as avoiding costly out-of-town delivery charges. You retain the rights to your work. We are experts on understanding speed-to-market and producing only what is needed for your current budget.

We are all about authorial control: your work, your design, your decision.

- We trademark your publication through ISBN registration.
- We design and layout your book how you want it.
- We prepare your proofs to ensure you are satisfied with your work and how it is set up.
- We print in full color and black & white.
- We provide a number of finishings which include: hard cover, soft cover, saddle stitch, coil binding, and so much more.
- We also have additional services such as printing book reviews, author prints, and author notes.
